Mrs Snow will continue working on reading, comprehension, spelling and writing skills with her “Fresh Start” group. Meanwhile, Mrs Sharp’s group will be writing poetry in a variety of different forms. We will then move onto Shakespeare’s “A Midsummer Night’s Dream” – learning about the plot and characters; appreciating the comedy (and insults!) in written & spoken form. In Guided Reading, our whole class focus will be excerpts from books relating to schools, which will tie in with our history learning. Our first handwriting pen has been awarded; who will be next? Finally, we will be reviewing our ongoing reading competition – who will win a prize?		The last half term of Maths lessons will see us measuring and calculating angles, and looking at ratio and pie charts. Then we will brush up on our formal written methods for multiplying and dividing large numbers. After this, we will make sure that we can convert between units of measure and calculate area and volume; all with a sprinkling of algebra to describe formula and generic examples. We will round off by looking at telling time - including reading bus timetables. Practising our times tables and the associated inverse facts and recognising fraction, decimal and percentages equivalents will continue during registrations.

PE Kits are needed on Tuesdays & Fridays. Mr Goldsmith will be taking the class for athletics on a Friday afternoon, while I will be umpiring rounders on a Tuesday. There will also be after-school clubs for athletics and tennis. As the weather will hopefully be hot and sunny, a spare pair of socks in the PE bag might be a cool and refreshing addition!	This will be a busy half term, as we will be making books to present our History learning in and we will be making picture frames as a memento of our time in Y6.	This term we will continue to be taught ukulele by one of our peripatetic teachers Mrs Jackaman. We have ukuleles in school, but you may bring your own if you have one.	We will complete the “Jigsaw” unit of work on “Relationships”. There will also be a blocked few days following the “Christopher Winter” scheme of work to recap on puberty before moving on to learn about reproduction, conception, pregnancy and online relationships.	Our work will be blocked this half term over a couple of days where our focus will be “Peace”.	We will be following the “Purple Mash” lessons learning about databases and hopefully having a go at making some of our own.
