Once we have completed our portfolio of work for the writing part of SATs, we will then move onto Shakespeare's "A Midsummer Night's Dream" – learning about the plot and characters, and appreciating the comedy (and insults!) in written & spoken form. There is still expectation to read several times a week – who will be the recipient of the next Year 6 reading challenge prize?		Maths this half term will be a mixture of application and maintenance. There will be a couple of in depth projects that will require a range of mathematical skills; whilst mental maths fluency will still be a focus – especially maintaining and improving times tables.

Our final topic of the year is "Animals including Humans" where we will be looking at how exercise, diet and tobacco can have an impact on our bodies.	 <h1 style="font-size: 2em;">Special Buildings</h1> 			 The local history study for this half term will focus on our school. We will hone our historical enquiry skills looking at the building and a variety of first and second hand sources. A questionnaire will be coming home soon for a past pupil to complete – perhaps it could be you!

PE Kits are needed on Tuesdays &amp; Fridays. Earrings need to be removed or taped up. In the run-up to sports day, both Mrs Sharp & Mr Goldsmith will be teaching athletics, then afterwards the focus will be striking & fielding – playing cricket and rounders.	We will be making a hardback book to present our history work in, building on our introduction to tile printing to create a front and back cover. 	Our work will be blocked this half term over a couple of days where the focus will be "Peace". 	The focus for this half term will be relationships and sex education following the "Christopher Winter" project scheme of work. A separate letter has been sent out to you with more details. We will also be exploring 'Changing Me' in Jigsaw.	We will continue this half term with our ukulele lessons from Mrs Jackaman. Ukuleles will be provided, but you are welcome to bring yours from home if you already have one. Plans are afoot for a whole school end of term concert too. 	Chromebooks and iPads will be used for research in our Maths and History lessons, with some of the work word-processed.
